

The Network for Public Health Law connects and serves individuals and organizations committed to applying the law to improve public health. Working with and for public health practitioners; local, tribal, state and federal officials; lawyers; policy-makers and public health advocates, the Network delivers:

- · Innovative legal technical assistance;
- · Training materials and programs on public health law; and
- · Connections among the public health law field.

Meet the Western Region

Located jointly in the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University and the University of New Mexico School of Law, the Western Region provides legal technical assistance for practitioners in Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Texas, Utah, and Washington.

We can help you:

- · Connect with other experts across the country;
- · Get help developing, implementing, and enforcing laws to solve public health problems; and
- · Access innovative technical assistance, training, and educational resources.

The Western Region leads the Network on: (1) Emergency legal preparedness and response and (2) Tribal public health law.

James G. Hodge, Jr., JD, LLM
Director
Director, Public Health Law &
Policy Program
Arizona State University

Clifford Rees, JD
Practice Director
University of New Mexico
School of Law

Dan Orenstein, JD
Deputy Director
Fellow, Public Health Law &
Policy Program
Arizona State University

Leila Barraza, JD, MPH
Deputy Director
Fellow, Public Health Law &
Policy Program
Arizona State University

Contact the Western Region

- · If you have a public health legal technical assistance request, contact the Network through the Network website: www.networkforphl.org
- · Or call the Western Region at 480-727-2092